

Photo: Ian Stickland

Fox cub checking out the camera

Photo: David Quail

Very young fox cub born in a barn

Fox Cubs

Around half a million fox cubs are born in the UK each year and this month most of them will be making their first safari above ground.

For a while they will follow their mother around as she attempts to teach them how to find food. However, faced with an exciting new world to discover, and coupled with a very short attention span, the cubs usually just end up playing a game with everything they find.

More info at:

www.uksafari.com/redfox.htm